Hello,

I have been texting the person who I meet at the house.

The plug under the sink does not work for the dishwasher.

The garbage disposal also on the same A/C plug is fine.

The dishwasher is fine with an extension cord.

When the women opened it the first time it was full of water indicating to me it was tested and failed during the first wash.

I expect there is a short in the plug they share.

There may be a problem in the kitchen wiring the dishwasher did not turn on and was full of water I used an extension cord and the dishwasher is fine The plugs above the sink on both sides don't work it may be just simply the fuse box I'll check for a fuse box today just wanted to give you a heads up I know it was just finished construction

Thks for letting me know.

Can you check if the plugs above sink have reset buttons, you can reset them or check the breaker box on the side of the house and reset there.

Thank you so much I threw the switches outside twice there is a reset button the one button lit up all the buttons on top I'll try the dishwasher later thanks again

Today

I worked around electronics and electricity since I was a kid and I've built radios and TVs but together computers it appears there's a problem in the plug under the sink as I said earlier there was water in the dishwasher when the ladies tried to use it telling me it had started a cycle all the plugs on top are working odd that there's only one breaker but that's fine and the garbage disposal works it's the bottom plug and it's even labeled as dishwasher that doesn't seem to have any power the wire may have come loose or whatever so all the plugs in the house work except the one labeled dishwasher under the sink advised me what you'd like to do thanks I am washing the dishes on an extension cord right now so it can wait till probably first part of the week

Pls forward your text to the landlord as well. He needs to know, if he asks us to help him fix it, we will send someone. If not, he will send some other people. In either case, it will be fixed for you. Thank you.
